

Canada's first Nobu set to open in Toronto development

metronews.ca/news/toronto/2017/03/08/nobu-hotel-residences-toronto-restaurant.html

3/8/2017

The high-end restaurant and hotels brand is heading north.

Nobu Residences Toronto

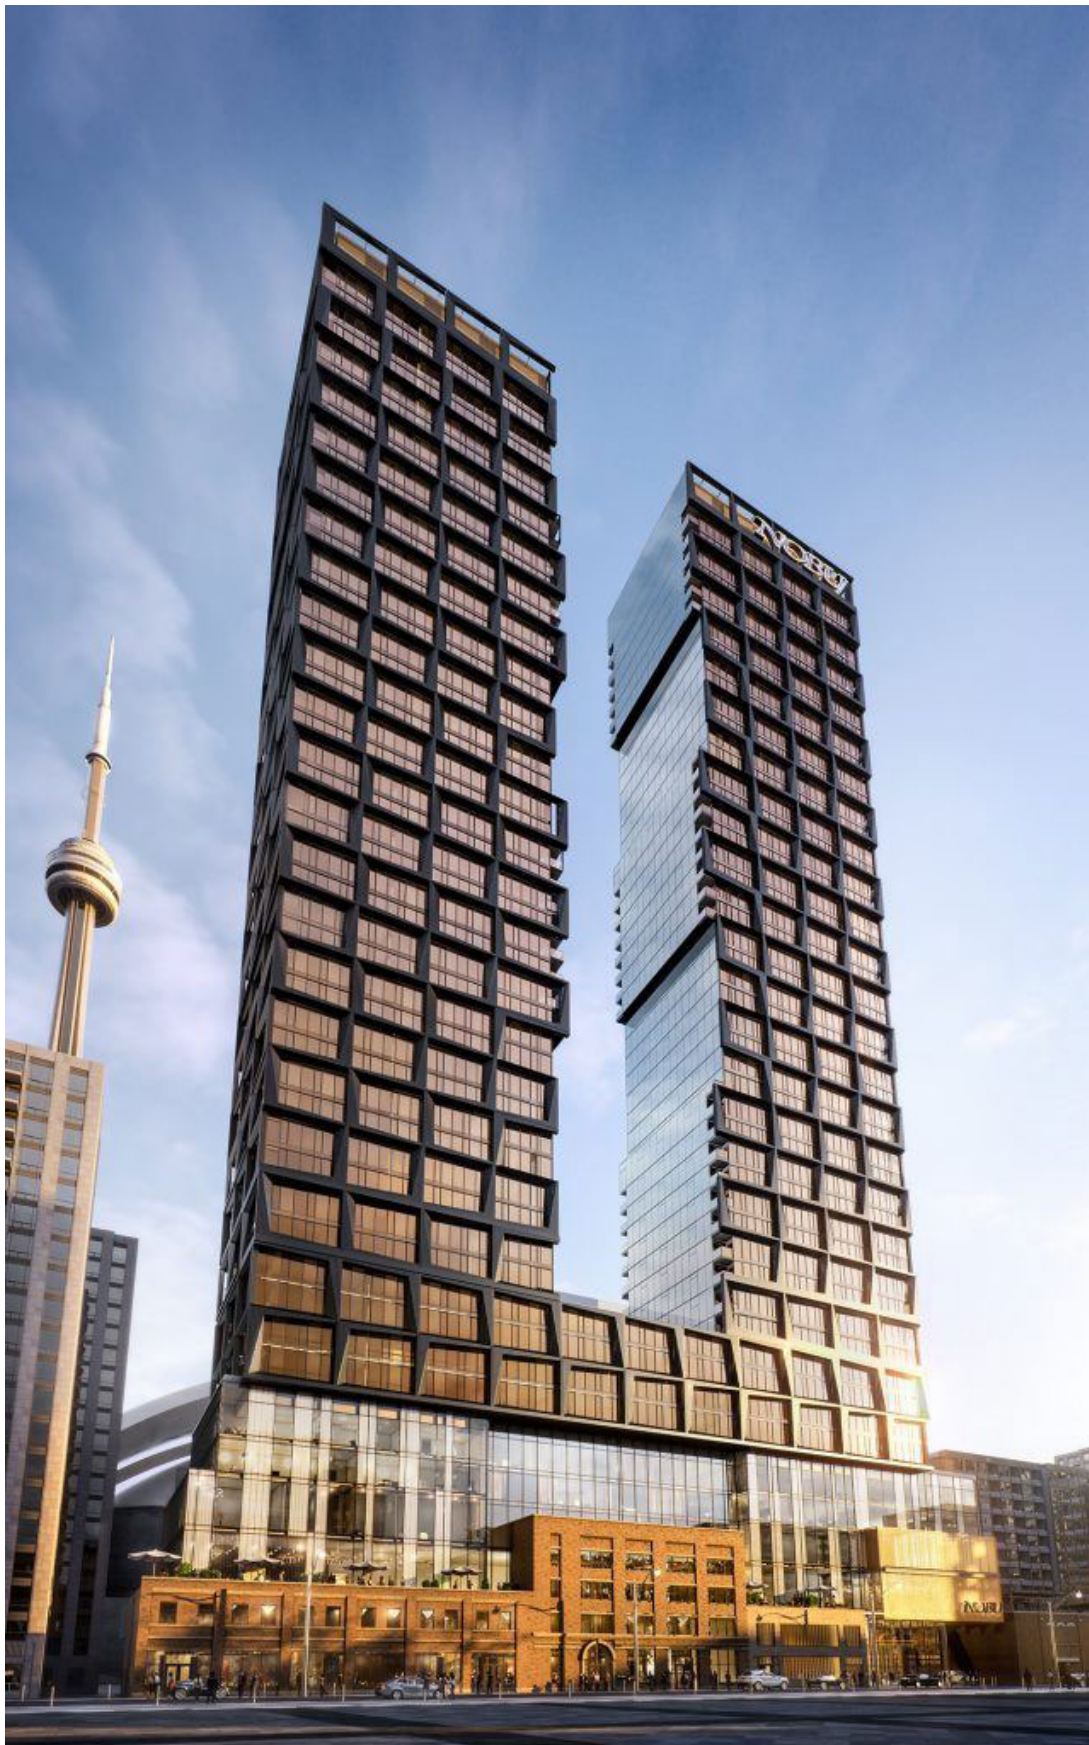

A new condo and hotel development destined for Mercer Street will be anchored by a Nobu restaurant in Toronto.

By: Andrew Fifield Metro Published on Wed Mar 08 2017

Canada's first Nobu will have a downtown Toronto address, but it will be much more than a restaurant.

The high-end brand has announced plans for a Mercer St. development that will include a hotel, condominiums and a 15,000-square-foot restaurant that is destined to be a hit with Toronto's visiting celebrities.

The complex's two 49-storey towers will be designed by Toronto's Teeple Architects while Studio Munge will handle the interiors.

Nobu Residences Toronto

Pre-construction sales for condo units at Nobu are set to begin this summer.

“For many years we have searched for the perfect opportunity within Toronto to create a true luxury lifestyle destination befitting Toronto,” said Nobu CEO Trevor Howell. “We are truly excited to announce Nobu Residences, Hotel and Restaurant Toronto, which we are crafting to be a game changer in residential living in Toronto and beyond.”

Pre-construction sales on the development’s 700 condo suites are expected to open this summer.

Ben Gabbe/Getty Images for Nobu Hotel Miami Beach

Food prepared by Nobu chefs is seen at the opening of the chain’s Miami location in November.